

repealed, and the Naturalization Act, 1914, was revived and amended under the title of the Naturalization Acts, 1914 and 1920. By an amendment passed by Parliament in 1923, the restriction by which persons of alien enemy birth were ineligible to receive certificates of naturalization for a period of 10 years after the termination of the War was removed, and at the present time any alien may apply for naturalization, regardless of his nationality. All these Acts have been consolidated in R.S.C., 1927, c. 138. Since Jan. 15, 1932, women British subjects, marrying aliens, retain British nationality, unless they, by marriage, acquire their husbands' nationalities, and the wives of aliens no longer become British subjects through their husbands' naturalization. They must apply to the Secretary of State.

Table 9 shows the number of naturalization certificates issued to single persons or heads of families under these Acts during the calendar years from 1928 to 1937. The total numbers of persons naturalized during the fiscal years 1937 and 1938, were 31,744 and 27,455, respectively, including (except as stated above) the wives and minor children of those to whom naturalization certificates were issued.
