Farm Revenues and Expenditures.—Total receipts from the sale of wheat amounted to 24.6 p.c. of the gross farm revenue, with 35.8 p.c. of all farms in Canada reporting revenue from this source. Revenue from the sale of dairy products accounted for 14.7 p.c. of the gross farm revenue; 58.9 p.c. of all farms reported revenue from the sale of dairy products. Of all farms in Canada 88.8 p.c. were reported as having consumed products produced on the farm. The total value of the products consumed was 12.3 p.c. of the gross farm revenue. The income from outside sources amounted to 9.4 p.c. of the gross farm revenue; 39.4 p.c. of all farms reported income from this source.

The average gross revenue per farm was highest in Alberta, with a provincial average of $1,484. The average gross revenue per farm in Ontario was $1,344, while the average per farm in British Columbia and in Manitoba was $1,274 and $1,254, respectively. The lowest gross revenue per farm, $716, was reported in Prince Edward Island.

The amount expended for farm labour, which included cash payments and the value of room and board supplied was the largest single item of expense and accounted for $18\cdot1$ p.c. of the total farm expenditures reported in Canada; $36\cdot5$ p.c. of all farms reported an expenditure for farm labour. Purchases of new farm implements, parts and repair work to old equipment, reported by $54\cdot9$ p.c. of the farms in Canada, accounted for $15\cdot6$ p.c. of the total farm expenditures. The amount expended for feed was $13\cdot7$ p.c. of the total farm expenditures; $58\cdot8$ p.c. of all farms were reported as having purchased feed for live stock.

The total expenditures were highest per farm in Alberta, with an average of $854. Saskatchewan, Ontario and British Columbia closely follow one another with average expenditures per farm of $728, $719 and $713, respectively. New Brunswick reported the lowest average expenditures per farm, $325, closely followed by Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, where average expenditures per farm were $326 and $336, respectively.
