

Section 2.—The Development of the Constitution Since Confederation

A specially prepared article bringing the developments since Confederation up to date is published at pp. 41-47 of the 1943-44 Year Book. See also list of Special Articles under "Constitution and Government" at the beginning of this volume.

PART II.—ORGANIZATION

Section 1.—Federal Government

The Dominion Parliament is composed of the King (represented by the Governor General), the Senate and the House of Commons. As a result of the working out of the democratic principle, the part played by the King's representative and the Upper Chamber of Parliament in the country's legislation has been, in Canada as in the United Kingdom, a steadily decreasing one, the chief responsibilities involved in legislation being assumed by the House of Commons.

Subsection 1.—The Executive

The Governor General.—The Governor General is appointed by the King as his representative in Canada, usually for a term of five years. He is bound by the terms of his commission and instructions and can exercise only such authority as is expressly entrusted to him. He acts under the advice of his Ministry, which is responsible to Parliament, and, as the acting head of the Executive, summons, prorogues and dissolves Parliament, and assents to or reserves bills. New Letters Patent came into force on Oct. 1, 1947, whereby it is legally possible for the Governor General, on the advice of Canadian Ministers, to exercise any of the powers and authorities of the Crown in respect of Canada, without the necessity of a submission being made to the King.

Salary and Allowances.—The Governor General receives a salary of £10,000 per annum, which is a charge against the consolidated revenue of the country. He also receives $50,000 annually as an allowance for travelling.
