

Rejections and Deportations.—The Immigration Act provides for the rejection and deportation of immigrants belonging to prohibited classes, and also for the deportation of those who become undesirables within five years after legal entry. The results of the operation of these regulations are shown in Tables 10 and 11, which give the numbers of immigrants rejected on arrival and those deported after admission, the causes of such rejections or deportations, and the nationalities of those deported for the years 1939-48.
