

Subsection 1.—Water-Power Resources of Canada and Other Countries

The potential resources of the combined continents of Africa and Asia represent more than 64 p.c. of the world total, whereas the total development that has been made in these two continents is only slightly more than 14 p.c. of the development in the world at large. Enormous potential resources exist on the great river systems