Per Capita Value of Commodity Production.—Per capita net value of commodity output in Canada in 1957, at $1,090, was slightly lower than in 1956. In three provinces the per capita output was higher than the Canadian average; Ontario ranked first with $1,341, British Columbia second with $1,250 and Alberta third with $1,240. Per capita net value of output in the Maritime Provinces was less than half the Canadian average, and Quebec's per capita production was 11 p.c. below the national figure. Saskatchewan, where value of output fluctuates widely with crop conditions, was 21 p.c. below the Canadian average in 1957.
