PART IV.—TRAVEL BETWEEN CANADA AND OTHER COUNTRIES*

Canada continues to be a popular attraction to residents of other countries. During 1961 a record 30,500,000 visits to Canada by persons residing in the United States represented an increase of close to 3 p.c. over the volume in 1960. On the other hand, Canadians made 29,300,000 trips to the United States, an insignificant increase over 1960. At the same time, re-entries of Canadian travellers from journeys to overseas countries in 1961 registered a gain of 18 p.c. over the previous year.

Preliminary estimates for 1961 indicate that $1,106,000,000 was spent on international travel between Canada and other countries, a rise of between 5 p.c. and 6 p.c. over 1960 expenditures. Total receipts from visitors to Canada amounted to $473,000,000, comprising $429,000,000 from United States residents and $44,000,000 from overseas travellers. The amount spent by United States residents was between 14 p.c. and 15 p.c. higher than in 1960 but expenditures of overseas visitors to Canada were about 2 p.c. lower. Estimates of expenditures by Canadians travelling abroad in 1961 also reached a record high of $633,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 or 1 p.c. over 1960. Travel to the United States accounted for $453,000,000 of this amount, which was 2 p.c. lower than the amount spent by Canadians in that country in 1960. On the other hand, the $180,000,000 spent on visits to countries other than the United States in 1961 was $15,000,000 or 9 p.c. higher than the amount so spent in 1960. It is estimated that Canada's balance of payments deficit on travel account with other countries was reduced by $47,000,000 or nearly 23 p.c. in 1961 compared with 1960. The total debit balance amounted to $160,000,000 and comprised a $24,000,000 deficit with the United States and a $136,000,000 deficit with other countries.

Only the above summary figures, subject to revision, were available for 1961 at the time of writing (July 1962). Detailed information for 1960 is given in the following text and tables.
