

CHAPTER II.—CONSTITUTION AND GOVERNMENT*

CONSPECTUS

	PAGE		PAGE
Part I.—Constitution of Canada.....	56	Part III.—Administrative Functions of the Federal Government.....	100
Part II.—Machinery of Government.....	60	SECTION 1. FINANCIAL ADMINISTRATION... 100	100
SECTION 1. THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT... 60		SECTION 2. DEPARTMENTS, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, ETC..... 104	104
Subsection 1. The Executive..... 60		SECTION 3. CROWN CORPORATIONS..... 114	114
Subsection 2. The Legislature..... 66		SECTION 4. ACTS ADMINISTERED BY FEDERAL DEPARTMENTS..... 123	123
Subsection 3. The Judiciary..... 77		Part IV.—Federal Government Employment..... 128	128
SECTION 2. PROVINCIAL AND TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENTS..... 80		Part V.—Canada's External Relations... 142	142
Subsection 1. Newfoundland..... 81		SECTION 1. DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATION AS AT APR. 30, 1964..... 143	143
Subsection 2. Prince Edward Island..... 81		SECTION 2. INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES, 1963-64..... 148	148
Subsection 3. Nova Scotia..... 82		Subsection 1. Canada and Commonwealth Relations..... 148	148
Subsection 4. New Brunswick..... 83		Subsection 2. Canada and the United Nations..... 149	149
Subsection 5. Quebec..... 84		Subsection 3. Canada and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization..... 154	154
Subsection 6. Ontario..... 86		Subsection 4. Canadian External Aid Programs..... 155	155
Subsection 7. Manitoba..... 87
Subsection 8. Saskatchewan..... 88
Subsection 9. Alberta..... 89
Subsection 10. British Columbia..... 90
Subsection 11. Yukon Territory and Northwest Territories..... 92
SECTION 3. MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT..... 93
SECTION 4. FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL ROYAL COMMISSIONS..... 98

The interpretation of the symbols used in the tables throughout the Year Book will be found on p. viii of this volume.

PART I.—CONSTITUTION OF CANADA

The Canadian federal state, which today comprises ten provinces and two vast northern territories, had its beginning ninety-seven years ago in the enactment (Mar. 29, 1867) by the British Parliament of the British North America Act, 1867. Fashioned largely out of the Seventy-two Resolutions drafted at Quebec (1864) by the Fathers of Confederation, the British North America Act, 1867 provided for the federal union of the three British North American provinces (Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia) in one Dominion under the name of "Canada".

While the new nation that came into being on July 1, 1867 was a federation comprised of four provinces, namely, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, Sect. 146 of the Act provided for the admission into the Union of the Crown colonies of Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland on the Atlantic and the united (1866) island and mainland colony of British Columbia on the Pacific, and also of the vast expanse of Hudson's Bay Company territory in the North West known as "Rupert's Land and the North-Western

* Except where otherwise indicated, the information in this Chapter has been brought up to the date of Apr. 30, 1964. Certain changes occurring between that date and the date of going to press will be found in an Appendix to this volume. Also, official appointments made up to the date of going to press will be found in Chapter XXVIII (see Index).