Advanced instruction in music is also given at the Conservatoire de Musique et d'Art Dramatique in both Montreal and Quebec, and at Mount Royal College, Calgary, Alta.

Opera may be studied at the Royal Conservatory Opera School of the University of Toronto; advanced students work in close collaboration with the Canadian Opera Company. Opera is also taught at the Conservatoire de Musique et d'Art Dramatique and the Banff School of Fine Arts (summer), Banff, Alta.

A Bachelor degree with specialization in drama may be obtained at Queen's University and the Universities of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. Advanced instruction is also given during the summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

The University of Toronto has recently announced its first chair of drama, although it does not expect to offer degrees immediately. The University of British Columbia hopes to offer a postgraduate degree in theatre leading to the M.A., classes to begin in the academic year 1965-66. Some graduate courses are offered at the University of Saskatchewan, and the University of Alberta, in the academic year 1964-65, initiated a full degree course in drama.

The National Theatre School of Canada offers complete practical training for talented students. It is bilingual, winter courses being held at Montreal, Que., and summer at Stratford, Ont. Three years are required for the acting course, and two for the technical and production studies. The Manitoba Theatre School at Winnipeg, and the Medhurst Theatre School and the New Play Society Theatre School at Toronto, are also of importance.

The National Ballet School at Toronto is the only residential ballet school in Canada. It offers academic studies together with practical instruction. Professional instruction is also offered by two other major Canadian ballet companies, Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, Montreal, and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, Winnipeg. The Canadian School of Ballet is located in Kelowna, B.C., and advanced ballet training is given during the summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Section 2.—Museums and Education

Modern museums, in Canada and elsewhere, are breaking away from the old concept of being mere repositories and are assuming an important role as educational and cultural centres. They have an advantage over other agencies of education in that they are able to provide, for study and exhibition, actual, original objects as well as descriptions and pictures of such objects. Canadian museums of history and science offer many educational services to the public through exhibits, guided tours, lectures, and scientific and popular publications. The following museums have staff members who are specifically charged with organizing programs in education and providing extension services:—

Nova Scotia Museum, Halifax, N.S.
 McGill University Museums, Montreal, Que.
 National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, Ont.
 Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, Ont.
 Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History, Regina, Sask.
