

districts had been established. There are 32 cities, 12 towns, 56 villages and 39 districts; the latter are mostly rural municipalities although there are some districts adjacent to the principal cities of Victoria and Vancouver that are largely urban in character. It should be emphasized, however, that in British Columbia the application of the name 'city' is somewhat different from the commonly accepted meaning; because of their small size, perhaps one half or more of the 32 cities would not normally be incorporated as such in another province. Municipalities are supervised by the Department of Municipal Affairs.

In addition to the above types of municipalities, there are unincorporated improvement districts that have been set up to provide certain municipal services such as protection, waterworks, irrigation, etc. These districts are under the supervision of the Department of Lands, Forests, and Water Resources.

Yukon and Northwest Territories.—In Yukon Territory there are two cities (Whitehorse and Dawson) and one unincorporated town (Mayo). In the Northwest Territories there are two towns (Yellowknife and Hay River), one village and two local improvement districts.
