PART V.—CANADA'S EXTERNAL RELATIONS*

Section 1.—Canada's International Status

The growth of Canada's international status is reflected in the development of the Department of External Affairs. From Confederation until 1914, Canada's position in the British Empire was essentially that of a self-governing colony, whose external relations were directed and controlled by the Imperial Government in Great Britain. Canada's first efforts concerning its own external relations, in the early 1900s, merely took the form of creating improved administrative machinery at home. In 1909, Parliament authorized the establishment of a "Department of External Affairs" placing it under the Secretary of State, with an Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs to rank as the
