Teaching Staffs.—Between the school years 1945-46 and 1965-66, the number of teachers in the publicly controlled schools of the ten provinces increased from 77,479 to 201,855, or 161 p.c. The number of men teachers increased by 295 p.c. and the number of women teachers by 120 p.c.

After moderate increases between 1946 and 1960, median experience of teachers declined over the following six years, a trend attributable to the large number of new teachers entering the profession. Because most of these new teachers have been employed in the cities, median experience there has declined rapidly from a high in 1946 of 16.7 years in eight provinces (excluding Quebec and Ontario) to a low in 1966 of 6.5 years in eight provinces (excluding Quebec and Saskatchewan). The median experience of all teachers did not show such a pronounced decline, ranging between 7.0 and 8.0 years up to 1960 and then declining to a new low of 6.7 years for eight provinces (excluding Quebec and Saskatchewan).
