

tion; extensive war collections; the Massey collection presented to the Gallery during 1946-50 by the Massey Foundation; a collection of French paintings; prints and drawings; and diploma works of the Royal Canadian Academy. The prints and drawings collection consists of more than 5,000 items. The services of the Gallery include the operation of a reference library open to the public which contains more than 10,000 volumes and periodicals on the history of art and other related subjects.

The National Conservation Research Laboratory, established in 1964, provides technical information on works of art from public and private collections across Canada and is responsible for the conservation of the national art collections. In addition, research is carried out on the effects of environment on works of art and on the durability of artists' materials.

An active program of exhibitions, lectures, films and guided tours is maintained for visitors to the Gallery in Ottawa. The interests of the country as a whole are served by circulating exhibitions, lecture tours, publications, reproductions and filmstrips prepared by the National Gallery staff. Promotion of and information on art films are handled by the Canadian Centre for Films on Art and their distribution by the Canadian Film Institute. The Gallery promotes interest in Canadian art abroad by participating in international exhibitions such as the Biennials of Venice, São Paulo and Paris, and by preparing major exhibitions of Canadian art for showing in other countries. At the same time, it brings important exhibitions from abroad for circulation in Canada.
